Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 26 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A wet outlook, with frequent rainfall and mild temperatures.

Today:
Overnight rain continues into the day, spreading eastwards and turning heavy at times. This weakens into the afternoon, becoming dry for some. Feeling mild, despite some light winds. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Daytime rain continues to weaken, though some patchy rain cover remains, with isolated fog patches possibly developing in drier areas. Into the early hours some further outbreaks of rain return. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Wednesday:
A cloudy day with patchy rainfall, heavy in places, which turns more widespread into the evening as further rain arrives from the south west. Feeling mild, despite light winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Dry Thursday day, but wet during the night. Dry with sunny spell Friday, before strong winds and heavy rain move in during the night. Then dry, bright and cold Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.